USB-powered birthday computer decoration kit

It's ya birthday

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 13 September 2007

If you work in the kind of jovial office that celebrates colleague's birthdays by dressing up their work space before they get in on the big day, you might want to consider raiding the petty cash tin for one of these kits.

Comprising of a set of USB-powered "birthday lights", a birthday hat, mouse pad and screen saver, keeping this $19 investment in a safe place will save you having to send Eric the tea boy down to Londis for fresh decs every time.
