

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/10693/devicescape-software-available-nokia-phones>

Devicescape software now available on Nokia phones

Getting online via Wi-Fi on your Nokia just got a whole lot easier

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 11 October 2007

Devicescape Software has announced today that it is working with Nokia to make its software available on selected Wi-Fi enabled Nokia devices.

The Devicescape software enables automatic connections to Wi-Fi, and is now available via the Nokia Download! application on selected Wi-Fi enabled Nokia devices.

Once set up, Devicescape enables automatic connections to Wi-Fi allowing consumers to quickly and easily access their favourite internet applications at homes and Wi-Fi hotspots worldwide.

Devicescape eliminates the need to launch a browser to enter user names and passwords on your Nokia device. Your user name and password are entered just once and stored on a secure server and, after that, Devicescape enables you to connect to any supported network within range.

Nokia N95 multimedia computer owners in the UK and the US can find Devicescape under "Easy WiFi" in the Download! application on their device.

Nokia Internet Tablet owners can also find an optimized version of Devicescape in the Nokia Tableteer Folder.

