CenOmax launches F7012A Digital Photo Frame

New 7-inch offering

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 19 October 2007

The F7012A digital frame from newly launched brand cenOmax (part of Lite-On) allows photos to be "elegantly" displayed.

The frame integrates both a USB flash drive connector and a memory card slot compatible with most card types, and has an onboard memory for 15 pictures.

The F7012A can also add special audio and visual effects to the display, supporting MP3 playback through built-in speakers, and transitions.

The photo frame also features auto-rotate and resize functions as well as a built in alarm and calendar, and user-friendly menu.

The F7012A 7-inch digital photo frame is bundled with extra clip-on frames in Orange and Black, but features a "matting" function too which allows users to use their frames around pictures to fit with six themes such as Christmas and Valentines.

Available from October for around £48.
