ScooterDesk - a computer desk with wheels

"Mobile touch-down station"

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 19 October 2007

The ScooterDesk concept from Utilia Design is a wheeled "standing-aid" with an included writing tablet.

It serves as a mobile touch-down station for occasional short tasks such as filling out forms, checking data and browsing the net.

It can also be made to order as a dual version with seating for two persons - although it's not clear if this would be tandem-style or side-by-side...
