Nokia N82 pics leaked ahead of next week's launch

Blurry spy shots and rumoured spec

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 26 October 2007

We recently brought you news of a teaser page on Nokia's site suggesting a new product launch on 2nd November that was widely believed to be the introduction of the as-yet unconfirmed N82.

The N82 mobile was spotted around the same time as the N81 leaks were spreading across the internet, but there's now been an official sighting and obligatory blurry pics of the new phone.

The N82 will apparently boast a 5-megapixel camera, with Xenon flash and autofocus lens, a 2.4-inch QVGA display, Bluetooth and Wi-Fi, integrated GPS, an FM tuner and a microSD memory card slot - see below for list of full (rumoured) spec and we'll keep you informed...
