

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/11761/hp-offers-free-edna-pictures>

HP teams up with Dame Edna Everage

Fill your home with pics of the Ozzie Diva (go on you know you want to)

by Katie Scott published on 17 December 2007

When the post holiday blues kick in, what you need is a pic of Dame Edna Everage to make your own, according to HP.

The manufacturer has teamed up with Barry Humphries and his alter-ego Dame Edna Everage, who will both be producing a "piece of art", which people can then download from an HP microsite and then personalise.

This can be anything from adding a "bit of sparkle" to fiddling with the colours to create a masterpiece you can keep forever.

The project launches in January. And by February, you could have the Dame staring at you through rhinestone glasses in every room. What an ... errrm ... thrilling prospect, possums.

