

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/11899/2008-international-ces-coverage-pocket-lint>

2008 International CES coverage on Pocket-lint

Read all about it!

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 2 January 2008

January offers the biggest, bestest and most exciting consumer electronics show of the year with Las Vegas' CES.

Now an annual highlight in the tech calendar, the show spread across the Las Vegas Convention Centre and more Vegas hotels than you could shake a die at, has been the launch pad in the past for technologies that shape the gadget world today.

The space for the exhibition covers more than 1.7 million square feet, with around 3000 exhibitors and last year saw nearly 150,000 attendees, plus around 5000 members of the press.

This year's CES promises to be as exciting as previous years with gargantuan televisions, hardware innovations, mobile technology taking another step forward and the battle between Blu-ray and HD DVD rumbling on in the background.

Pocket-lint will of course have ring-side seats for all the big events, and will be poised on the show floor for stand tours, product hands-ons and all the news you need to know rather than just a diatribe of press releases and unimportant announcements.

We will have a team of reporters out in Vegas this year to bring you all the latest and greatest CES-related news, so tune in for our coverage.

You can catch up with all the latest news and first look reviews from the show in a number of ways on Pocket-lint this year.

Via our dedicated CES 2008 channel, our show RSS feed, or news alerts directly to your inbox if you are a member.

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/11899/2008-international-ces-coverage-pocket-lint>

...cont.

Better still, if you sign up to become a member, which is free by the way, you can even personalise our homepage to show just CES 2008 news.

The CES 2008 channel and feeds will be live from today for the next couple of weeks.