

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/12592/tangent-launches-fifth-radio-model>

Tangent launches fifth radio model

The first one to include a CD player

by Katie Scott published on 1 February 2008

Danish manufacturer Tangent has added its fifth radio to its range, and the Cinque is the first to offer a CD player as well as DAB radio.

Tangent adds that iPod and MP3 players can easily be integrated too.

The radio function can be either a DAB Tuner and/or RDS FM Tuner, and has 12 presets, and auto tune.

The new radio comes in two models - both of which will arrive in the first week of February.

The Tangent Cinque CD/DAB/FM will cost from £239.99 while the non-DAB version will be £189.99.

The radio, which has a solid wood cabinet, comes in four different finishes: Walnut, White Gloss, Black Gloss and Red Gloss.

Additional features include an alarm clock with snooze function, a remote control and a 5 watt rms amplifier.

The Cinque is 210 x 125 x 200mm (W x H x D).

