Kindle gets range of specially designed cases

We'd settle for just the device...

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 7 February 2008

Waterfield has just launched a range of cases designed especially for Amazon's Kindle e-book reader.

The SleeveCase, Travel Case and Slip Case are all designed to hold and protect the high-tech device and prices range from $27.

All this serves to do is remind us that we're still to see a launch of the clever little gadget in the UK.

Come on Amazon, show Blighty some love...
