Goldstriker launches "Nightfire" leather and gold iPhone

For just under a grand

Goldstriker are offering yet another variation on a luxury blinged up iPhone, the "Nightfire" edition.

Due to be the flagship handset of the new ShSh! luxury leather collection named after Goldstriker's chief designer Stuart Hughes, the phone has 24 carat gold accents with a luxury red grain leather back.

The leather used is apparently the same cow-skin as used in the past for bespoke requirements for cars such as by Bentley, Aston Martin, and Ferrari.

Pricing for the Nightfire leather iPhone will be around the £900 mark and exclusivity is ensured with only 250 to be made in more few colours too, including ivory and black.

The super-swank phone will be available from the end of April 2008.
