

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/14070/chinavision-7-inch-display-nintendo-wii>

Chinavision launches 7-inch Wii screen

Play your fave Nintendo console anywhere

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 18 April 2008

Chinavision has launched a screen for the Nintendo Wii with the tempting claim that it will allow you to play your Wii games wherever you are.

The 7-inch TFT LCD display offers a resolution of 480 x 234 and built-in stereo speakers.

The wholesalers promise that fitting the unit is easy - just a matter of attaching the base of the unit to the back of the Wii.

All of the ports on the back of your unit are cloned so you can simply plug in your Nintendo power cable and keep all of your USB accessories.

The screen's mount is a ball and socket design so it can be angled in a variety of ways and when not in use folds down flat against the console for protection.

Complete with an in-car adapter, the screen is around £52, less if you wanted to bulk order, and available now.

