IPod gets ceramic "Music Mug" speaker

Cup it

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 24 April 2008

Designer Masato Tokuno has created what looks like an "innocent" ceramic mug but actually hides a speaker inside to use with a portable audio device.

Just plug your chosen portable jukebox in, drop the device inside, and carry your music with you wherever you go.

Available in black and white for $69.99, the site states: "And just to clarify; no, you can't use it for coffee too".
