IWOOT launches giant inflatable RolerBall

The funnest way to throw yourself down a hill, ever

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 24 April 2008

The gigantic RolerBall, standing about three metres high, is described as "a spherical cushioned igloo".

The idea is to put it at the top of a slope, strap yourself in, and then roll down the hill in a kerazy giant inflatable novelty stylee. So far, so good.

Inside the centre shell are two harnesses, it comes complete with a powerful pump that will inflate it in about 15 minutes and a puncture repair kit. Really.
