Nokia fills Renault car with its gadgets

Only 1000 to be made by Katie Scott published on 25 April 2008

Exciting news if you like Nokia, love Renault cars and live in errrr ... Brazil.

The two companies have teamed up for a Nokia-flavoured motor - the Sandero Nokia.

It is the first Renault model produced in Brazil to come equipped with Nokia's complete mobility solution, including the Nokia N95, with an integrated Global Positioning System (GPS), pre-loaded Nokia Maps service, Bluetooth connection and a music player, large screen and camera.

It also includes the Nokia LD-3W GPS module and is integrated with the Nokia CK-20W, an automobile accessories kit.

Only 1000 will be made and they'll have a Ä17,650 price tag.
