Sony Ericsson Paris surfaces

Snaps appear online

by Stuart Miles published on 8 May 2008

Pictures have surfaced on the Internet of Sony Ericsson's next handset.

Codenamed Paris, the slider reportedly runs on the Symbian UIQ 3.3 Operating System and judging from the pictures will feature a 5-megapixel camera to compete with Samsung, LG and Nokia on the image front.

The phone will also sport a 20-key QWERTY keypad.

There is no info as what is inside the phone and whether it will offer HSDPA, GPS or Wi-Fi.

We will keep you posted.
