iCarta toilet tissue holding dock for iPod gets a revamp

Rock and bog roll

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 9 May 2008

The iCarta stereo dock for iPod with "bath tissue holder" has been remade as a "+" version with some improvements.

The main tweak is that the device now includes a built-in rechargeable battery that gives you up to 8 hours of toilet-side playtime - more convenient than the previous version that needed mains power.

Other features, apart from the fact that it holds one bog roll, comes in with four integrated high performance moisture-free speakers that claim to deliver exceptional clarity and high quality sound.

As well as docking and charging iPods and iPhones, the audio selector allows you to play iPod shuffles or other MP3 playing devices

The wall-mounted item measures 210 x 93 x 181mm and is currently up for grabs for $70 on mother's day special promo. Classy.
