iRiver's Lplayer revealed

Quirky design includes speaker stand by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 29 May 2008

iRiver's Lplayer has been launched in Korea, and while there's no news yet of a Euro launch just yet we thought it worthy of mention for its quirky design.

There's a clever speaker stand attachment that props the player up - and presumably offers beefed up sound - for watching video in a desktop stylee.

Other features include a 2-inch QVGA screen, support for MPEG4 video as well as FLAC, OGG, MP3, and WMA audio.

Available in up to 8GB capacities it goes on sale in Korea for around the $150 mark.
