LG launches stretched displays

Super widescreens

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 2 June 2008

LG has announced two "stretched" display monitors for the UK, the first such devices to see a launch here.

Rather than being super-widescreens for consumers, the M3800S-BN and M2900S-BN have been designed specifically to host large format digital data for public locations.

The M3800S-BN's 38-inch screen and the M2900S-BN's 29-inch screens can display data either horizontally or vertically in large format and full colour.
