Sony Ericsson S500i "Flowers" launches

Limited edition handset gets floral makeover

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 3 June 2008

Sony Ericsson has announced the limited edition S500i "Flowers" handset, available exclusively from The Carphone Warehouse stores from 3 June 2008.

Described as "the phone for any fashionista who wants to have the season's freshest look", the handset is covered in delicate flowers, which apparently mirrors current catwalk trends for all things floral.

In addition, upping that girlie appeal further, each purchase at The Carphone Warehouse will net a selection of limited edition Jemma Kidd Make Up School goodies for nails and lips worth £16.

The S500i is a 14mm GSM slider that offers a 2-megapixel camera, web browser, email, media player and themed LED mood lighting.
