Last minute Apple iPhone 3G spy shot!

Is this what Jobs will reveal tonight?

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 9 June 2008

The web is awash with faked 3G iPhone pics ahead of what's supposedly the launch of the second-gen device this evening, but this one just sent in to French site GMP3 looks interesting.

It clearly shows support for WiMAX - not a feature particularly rumoured for the new version of the mobile - but then Apple has recently advertised for a senior wireless system engineer with WiMAX experience...
