Eton has launched the Porsche Design P'9123 stereo with the claim that it takes sound and design "to the limits".

Claiming to capturing the essence of Porsche design, the P'9123 has been engineered with a double wall construction with a geometric acrylic casing fused to the metal housing, rubberised paint on the grill and a ventilation system for cool air circulation.

With three 1.5-inch full-range drivers and 3-inch active subwoofer this tabletop stereo system offers DAB/AM/FM radio, short wave broadcast, an OLED alphanumeric display, an alarm clock radio, iPod/iPhone dock and metallic remote control complete with torch.

Measuring 130 x 141 x 229mm and weighing in at 2.8 kilograms, the P'9123 will go on sale in August for £480.
