Tiny Celleden Bluetooth headset launches

"Ultra Compact" not just a clever name

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 30 June 2008

Celleden's "Ultra Compact" Bluetooth headset has just been launched in the UK.

Described as "stylish and discreet", it's aimed at those who want to stay connected in a wireless way but without being weighed down by a heavy headset.

With the boast that it can hardly be felt or seen, it's certainly true it's wee - weighing in at 6.5 grams, the device is barely larger than a 20 pence piece.

Specs-wise you're looking at 4 hours continuous talk time and 50 hours standby time with a 10 metre range.

Available in black and white, the Ultra Compact comes complete with a compact charging base and is on sale now for £30 at various retailers including www.twistedcarbon.com.
