

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/15810/atampt-iphone-3g-pricing-revealed>

American iPhone 3G pricing revealed

And it's not from free on AT&T

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 1 July 2008

AT&T, the official iPhone operator in the States, has revealed its pricing for the iPhone 3G, including its non-contract charges.

As well as offering the phone on a minimum 2-year contract, the carrier will sell the device on a pay-as-you-go basis for a premium.

AT&T's "from" prices for the iPhone 3G are $199 and $299, where as the handset-only pricing comes in at $599 and $699 and will be sold "sometime in the future", AT&T said.

In the UK the iPhone 3G will be offered from free, dependent on contract. Pay & Go pricing is yet to be confirmed, although the O2 site did publish prices - apparently in error - from £299.

AT&T has also revealed that the new model will go on sale at 8am on 11 July which tallies with rumours of an early morning debut in the UK too.

