

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/15975/16gb-kingston-datatraveler-400-launches>

16GB Kingston DataTraveler 400 launches

Syncing drive that lets you work across multiple computers

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 8 July 2008

Kingston Technology has announced the launch of the 16GB version of its DataTraveler 400, a USB flash drive preloaded with MigoSync data syncing software from Migo Software.

The DT400 allows users to work among multiple PCs by directly synchronising files, email and internet browser settings onto the drive.

In addition to standard file synchronisation, MigoSync also comes with Universal Mail Format, which enables a user to access email on a guest PC, even when it does not support the user's primary email application for formats including Windows Mail, Outlook, Outlook Express or Lotus Notes.

The drive's built-in SecureTraveler software allows the creation of a "Privacy Zone", which lets a user create and maintain a password-protected area of the drive to keep data safe.

The Kingston DataTraveler 400 is supported by a 5-year warranty and free 24/7 technical support and is available now for £83.75.

