

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/16221/mishake-motion-sensing-media-player-electrobox>

MiShake media player launches

Complete with digital spirit level

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 17 July 2008

Electro Box has launched the "miShake" portable digital media player in the UK that has a 2.4-inch TFT touchscreen and aims to take on the iPod nano.

As well as the usual PMP functions, the device boasts a loudspeaker and offers a unique "Shocktronix" motion sensor capability that allows users to navigate through songs, videos and images with a shake of the device, or can be used to turn the pages of an e-book.

Offering a 4GB memory capacity, there's also a microSD card slot for expansion, voice recording capabilities, FM radio with recording, pedometer and apparently thanks to the Shocktronix technology - a digital spirit level.

The player gets a dedicated website too that will offer wallpaper downloads, games, and more as well as support.

Bundled with "miBud" earphones, that can be enhanced with Swarovski crystal decorations, the miShake will retail at £119.95 and is available from www.miShake.com.

