

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/16464/celleden-bluetooth-anywhere-speakerphone-launches>

Celleden Bluetooth "Anywhere" speakerphone launches

Desk- and car-friendly gizmo

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 29 July 2008

Celleden has launched its Bluetooth Anywhere Speakerphone in the UK. As well as working as a portable speakerphone the device can also be used as a car kit.

With a sleek aluminium finish, the speakerphone utilises dual-microphone technology and Celleden says this, and its digital signal processor, provides great sound clarity wherever you are.

Compatibility with any Bluetooth-enabled device means the speakerphone can be connected with not just a mobile phone but also with a laptop or PDA to enable internet-based conference calls.

Car kit-wise, the gadget's compact dimensions and lightweight build is said to make it easy to attach to your car's sun visor while functions such as voice-activated dialling mean users can make calls without taking their eyes off the road.

It can be powered through the mains, a car cigarette lighter or via a PC USB port and its rechargeable battery allows approximately 3.5 hours continuous talk time and 250 hours standby time.

The Celleden Anywhere Bluetooth Speakerphone priced at £49.99 and is available at selected high street and online stores.

