

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/16794/underwater-digital-camera-mask-japan>

Liquid Image introduces underwater digital camera mask

In Japan...

by Verity Burns published on 11 August 2008

Just another cool gadget that Japan gets first. Liquid Image's underwater digital camera mask is waterproof to 5 metres, and allows you to snap away while you're snorkelling, diving, or when you just want to take stupid photos of your friends underwater in a pool.

You'll have the freedom of not having to hold a camera in your hands, and when you like something you see, you can take a picture at the touch of a button on the top of the mask.

The internal camera offers 3 megapixels, an LCD screen, 16MB of internal memory (with a microSD card slot to expand it up to 2GB) and even a VGA video mode.

It's apparently available now in Japan for little over $100 (around £50), but has grounds for import if we've ever seen it.

