Simple handsfree device for £20

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 26 August 2008

GN has launched the Jabra BT2050 Bluetooth headset with a simple design - and simple price tag of £20.

With the design centred around an "elegant" silver disk, the BT2050 offers two wearing styles - with or without earhook - and comes in two sizes.

Offering automatic pairing, call ending by touching the disk and up to 4 hours talk time, the features are as light as its 8 gram weight.

Measuring just over 4cm in length, the BT2050 is available now from O2 stores across the country priced at approximately £19.99.
