

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/17193/wine-glass-shaped-speakers-amplifier>

Bottom's up with wine glass-shaped speakers

Another Japan special

by Verity Burns published on 28 August 2008

Wine and good music is surely one of the best partnerships in history, and a company in Japan obviously agrees.

So no, you can't drink the wine from the glasses, but instead they act as speakers, with the wine vat in between them actually being a digital amplifier.

The amplifier has a rated output of 4W x 2ch and an input sensitivity of 3000mV, while the speakers are 32mm in diameter, dome-shaped and full range.

Sadly only available in Japan at the moment, the Mini Clear Sound System is available for 26,250 yen, which is around £120. Bottom's up!

