Mock-up of the new iPod nano

Could this be the next-gen model?

by Katie Scott published on 27 August 2008

It's all Kevin Rose's fault.

Ever since the founder of digg.com announced that Apple is going to launch a new version of the iPod nano - a whole host of blogs have appeared guessing what it's going to look like.

And here's a possible.

Created by iPod Fan, Miguel Su-rez, this mock up sees Apple going with a more elongated chassis so that you will get a bigger screen, and perhaps, as a result, an interface update.

Let us know what you think...
