

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/17363/i-dog-dance-next-gen-speaker-launches>

I-Dog Dance launches

Electronic canine gets some new moves

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 4 September 2008

There's a new i-Dog in town with the launch of the i-Dog Dance.

With upgrades including new dance moves and a touch sensitive face, the electronic canine works by plugging it into your MP3 or CD player.

Multicoloured LED lights light up to the beat of your music and he can tap his paw along to the beat too.

The new dance moves come in with the ability to stand on his hind legs and "twist" to the music.

The i-Dog Dance's touch sensitive face is programmed to obey eight different commands while running your fingers over either side of his face makes DJ scratching noises.

Available in black and white, the i-Dog Dance will be on sale for around £40.

