WEBSITE OF THE DAY - tourofbritain.com

On your bikes for the best of British cycling

by Ian Hughes published on 5 September 2008

Before you all write in, yes I know we featured this site last year. But something tells me that the premier British cycling event might be drawing slightly bigger crowds in 2008 thanks to Messers Hoy, Wiggins and Cavendish.

Cav was the only member of the British Olympic cycling squad to leave Beijing without a medal and, knowing him, that means he'll be wanting to assert his undoubted sprinting authority all over the Tour of Britain which starts in London this weekend.

All the essential info is right here, so take look and then head out to see what professional bike riding is all about.

(Just checked the weather forecast and you might want to pack an anorak.)
