

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/17455/greenest-museum-on-earth>

VIDEO OF THE DAY - Green museum

A look at the future of environmentally friendly architecture

by Ian Hughes published on 11 September 2008

The new California Academy of Sciences, designed by Renzo Piano - perhaps most famous as Richard Rogers's architectural partner on the Pompidou Centre in Paris - is the greenest museum on Earth.

This behind-the-scenes look explains how that has been achieved.

Fascinating stuff.

If you've seen a video online that you want to tell us about email us via the feedback form.

