

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/17697/amazon-mp3-launch-uk-october>

Amazon MP3 downloads to launch in UK next month

Rumours see an October launch for digital music service

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 17 September 2008

Amazon.com is to launch its digital music service Amazon MP3 in the UK next month, according to reports.

The download service will directly rival iTunes and similar offerings from the likes of UK-based 7digital - that announced this week it was going 100% DRM-free MP3.

The NMA, echoing a previous report from The Telegraph back in June, says Amazon has held a series of meetings with UK record labels and has undertaken a recruitment drive to "beef up" its digital division.

Amazon UK's PR team declined to comment to Pocket-lint on the rumours so we'll just have to wait and see...

