VIDEO: Datawind's boss shows us the PocketSurfer 2R

We get a hands-on at the UK launch

by Katie Scott published on 7 October 2008

We promised you a video review of the new PocketSurfer 2R, and here it is.

Claiming to deliver "the next generation of mobile internet", this device basically allows you to view web pages on the go as you would view them on a computer.

The 2R is also claimed to be the world's first handheld device to incorporate a touchpad, but also includes an embedded GPS receiver.

Here is Suneet from Datawind to talk us through the new device and what it offers.

Copyright Pocket-lint Ltd 2003 - 2009