

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/20080/black-decker-wireless-remote-deadbolts>

Black and Decker to offer remote home locking solution

New Year launch for state-of-the-art system

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 30 December 2008

Black & Decker is to launch a "state-of-the-art remote wireless residential access control solution" that could see you locking your front door remotely.

Black & Decker's motorised electronic deadbolts can be locked and unlocked remotely, with no direct human interaction so are angled as ideal for those "did I lock the door?" moments when you're nearly at the airport...

Due to launch in the New Year, we'll bring you more information when the solution sees its official launch.

