Google Earth alphabet revealed

A to Z of landmarks

by Amy-Mae Elliott published on 27 April 2009

A 32-year-old Australian graphic designer has spent 6 months trawling images of Victoria on Google Earth to create a geographical alphabet.

From an A-shaped field to a Z-shaped building Rhett Dashwood has managed to find each letter of the alphabet.

"I found them exactly as you think I might have", Dashwood said. "Slowly moving from page to page over the maps and visually scanning".
