Money saving deals, offers and innovations

If you're into your music but don't want to splash a lot of cash for tunes on the go, then today's tech deal might be able to sort you out.

Amazon is selling the Sony NWZ-B135L MP3 player for £24.36, down from its RRP of £32.99.

The player itself comes with a 2GB memory which should hold around 500 tracks, whilst the quick charge function allows a good return on a 3-minute charge - giving you 90 minutes playback - while a full charge will give 16 hours listening time.

Another function is the ability to "easily" drag and drop content from Windows Media Player or Explorer, hopefully making transfer from your computer to your new player a cinch.

Delivery is free in the UK so just click through below for a closer look and we'll have another tech deal for you tomorrow.
