Denon unveils AH-C710 earbuds

Including "soft-foam" earpiece

by Duncan Geere published on 11 June 2009

Denon has announced the latest addition to its headphone lineup - the AH-C710 earbuds.

The earphones feature an ergonomic design, a "radial cascade damper", which apparently reduces cable noise, and an acoustic optimizer that adjusts sound pressure balance to give deeper bass.

There's also soft-foam earpieces that form to the shape of your ear canal. The company claims that means that fit won't be a problem, but just in case they include three sizes of earpiece.

The buds are available in black and silver and cost £140.
