WEBSITE OF THE DAY - 35 days

Share your views on the new Firefox features

by Ian Hughes published on 18 June 2009

There are a few subjects keeping the net buzzing at the moment: the new iPhone, Wolfram Alpha (see Video of the Day) the latest uses and abuses of Twitter and so on. But one we're all keeping an eye on is the new version of Firefox - the browser that has always had the big boys quaking in their virtual boots.

This little forum tracks 35 days of discussion on the new product and it makes interesting reading. The Mozilla people start each thread off with a rundown of a new Firefox feature and then the floor is opened up to see what the online community thinks of it.

We can't wait for the new version's full release, and clearly many others can't either.
