To celebrate 50 years of the F-Mount lens system, Nikon UK is offering cashback on D5000 and lens combination purchases.

The 12-megapixel effort has received a 9/10 score from Pocket-lint's full review (link below) and offers the ability to shoot 720p high-def video.

The choice of lenses is restricted to the AF-S models, which comprise of internal motors for auto focusing - the single lens option giving you £50 cashback, whilst going for two lenses will see you receiving £75.

All purchases need to be made between 1 July and 31 August and your claims, no later than 30 September.

If you're looking to enter into the DSLR market this camera appears to be a good all rounder, catering for both semi-enthusiast and semi novice. So the introduction of this offer makes the D5000 an even more compelling option.
