Sony Ericsson "Rachael" handset, with Android, coming?

Xperia-based phone leaks

It's not just Nokia cranking out the Android rumours. A Danish website, Mobil, has uncovered some details about an Xperia-based Sony Ericsson handset codenamed "Rachael".

Specs aren't extensively detailed, but the site claims that it's got a 1GHz Qualcomm Snapdragon processor, HSDPA and an 8-megapixel camera. The pics also show a 3.5mm headphone jack.

It looks like the flood of Android handsets that were due this year might have slipped a little into the first half of next year. However, there's no firm release date on this one, so we'll wait for an official confirmation.
