

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/25545/memorex-brings-singstand-to-uk>

Memorex brings SingStand to the UK

Mic stand/karaoke machine hybrid by Duncan Geere published on 14 July 2009

Memorex has announced that it's bringing its MKS-SS1, better known as the SingStand, to the UK. It's a microphone stand that doubles as a karaoke machine.

Plug in your iPod, or other MP3 player, and the "Auto Voice Control" feature will filter out the original vocals so that you can croon happily over the top of any song. It's got two microphone inputs as well as a guitar/keyboard line input.

The SingStand's got two big speakers in the base, along with volume and reverb controls for the full Bonnie Tyler experience. If you can't wait to belt out AC/DC all night long, then it costs £90, and it's available from "selected retailers" right now.

