Speaker Bomb will blow you away

Explosive music promised

by Stuart Miles published on 18 August 2009

Looking to add a bit of an explosion to your music? Then you'll need the aptly named Speaker Bomb.

Powered by USB or 4xAA batteries, you can connect the bomb to practically anything with a headphone socket to this "explosive ball of sound using the included lead," say UK retailer Firebox.

The speaker itself pumps out 6W of sound, which isn't going to "blow" you away [sorry we couldn't resist], but will mean that you should be able to add some bang to your party.

Yours for £24.99 when it ships later in the month in the UK.
