Ricoh releases firmware update for R8

Improves exposure accuracy

by Verity Burns published on 30 May 2008

Ricoh has announced firmware update version 1.20 for the R8 digital camera.

The R8 was introduced in February this year, and was the successor to the Caplio R7, the last of the Caplio models.

This new firmware update should improve the accuracy of exposure at continuous shooting with full-press.

Everything you'll need to know about the update and all instructions are all on Ricoh's website.
