

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/3464/kuutio-futon-soft-cube-box>

Soft box design to contain your kids

Trap your nippa in a soft box.

by Stuart Miles published on 26 May 2006

Emily can't crawl yet - after all she is only 5 weeks old, but we can't help feel here at dad blog that when she does we need some way of containing her. In steps the Kuutio Futon, a thick cotton mattress in the form of an opened cube with a zipper that runs round its rim. Kuutio is the Finnish word for a cube. It is also the name of this design project in which the designers Susan Elo and Sirpa Fourasti approach the familiar form in a new way. When folded in different ways and zipped up, it can be made into a bench, a stool, and an easy chair. In its cube form, it converts into a storage for the bedding or . When not used, it can be packed away with ease. Or as we think, for trapping your nippa in a soft box. For more information visit kuutio.info via yankodesign.com

