

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/6651/ea-fight-night-nintendo-wii>

EA's Fight Night could be coming to the Nintendo Wii

Here comes a new challenger

by Jason Denwood published on 14 February 2007

Gamesdog.co.uk, our sister gaming site is reporting that EA's boxing game, Fight Night could be making its way on to the console from Nintendo to challenge Nintendo's Wii Boxing title.

In an interview with boxing website doghouseboxing.com, Fight Night producer Michael Blank revealed that EA is currently discussing bringing the hit boxing franchise to the Wii.

"We're talking about it right now. We're contemplating and we definitely feel there are some exciting things we can do with the Fight Night franchise and the Wii", said Blank.

He also notes that Wii Boxing is a "very simple experience" and Fight Night is very much a simulation of the sport.

"...we need to take those Wii controls and tailor it to what the Fight Night consumer might want to experience. We are looking at it right now and I am sure you will something some time in the future on the Wii", concludes Blank.

Wii Boxing is just one of the Wii Sports titles that you get with the console. Other games include bowling, tennis, and baseball.

