Light up the April Showers with the Phasing LED Umbrella

Makes going out in the rain a pretty experience

by Stuart Miles published on 21 March 2007

With English weather being what it is at the moment; rain one minute, sunshine the next, I want One of Those has the Phasing LED Umbrella.

Costing £19.95 the Phasing LED Umbrella has got lots of tiny fibre optic threads that illuminate into your very own personal starlit night, right above your head.

The optics phase through several different colours so they look as pretty as a picture against the black backdrop of the umbrella meaning everybody can look at the stars no matter what the weather's up to.
