

<http://www.pocket-lint.com/news/7591/mobiletv-lg-handsets-phones-television>

LG to launch TV mobile phones

LG unveil new television handsets

by Ryan Haynes published on 3 May 2007

LG are set to launch three television mobile phones making an aggressive move into the market.

The SB630/KB6300/LB6300 Television Phones by the LG group, offer support for DMB-T standard for reception of wireless digital television transmissions.

The LG phones feature a 262k colour display, unfortunately it doesn't have a fantastic camera at 1.3 megapixel, although at least it will capture photographs and video shots.

To assist with the TV viewing the phones have a 30 MB of memory storage, and have a 3D surround sound system that gives a special effect to your televised transmissions.

An additional feature that makes the phone intriguing is its recorder - you can record up to an hour of television shows.

LG has made its battery last three hours of television viewing, so sure it will keep you occupied.

