Pocket MP3 player gets bent

MP3 player comes bent for the pocket

by Ryan Haynes published on 4 May 2007

Fed up of his MP3 player sticking awkwardly in his pocket, a designer has come up with a nifty shape for the humble MP3 player.

Seeming as well mainly carry the players in our pockets, he has taken the liberty to shape it according to our bodies.

Matthias Lange's bright orange and white MP3 player works to have a snug fit in the back or front pocket complete with an easy viewing display screen.

This is a concept, but it may come into production.

We will keep you posted.
